The Military Plans of the Government Kept a Profound Secret—It Would Be Treason to Make Them Public—The Formidable Spanish Fleet at Cape Verde Islands, According to Word Received by the Navy Department—Other Important News of the Situation.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Spain must make answer to our demand to evacuate Cuba by Saturday or else ignore the ultimatum altogether. Either the latter or a refusal to vacate the island will be followed by the movement of the United States army and navy on Cuba.

He went to Canada by way of Suspension Bridge, and will spend a few days at Toronto. Later he will proceed to Halifax and from there sail for Europe.

A large crowd was at the station, when the minister left, but only pleasing words were said by the spectators, who bowed amiably several times. The execution of the administration's program began with a conference between Assistant Secretary Day, ex-Secretary Foster and Second Assistant Secretary Adee, in which the wishes of the president and cabinet as to the ultimatum were reduced to diplomatic form. The other events succeeded each other with rapidity. The ultimatum was sent to the Spanish minister by Judge Day's personal messenger, Edward Savoy, one of the trusted employees of the state department. He was appointed to his place in 1869 by Hamilton Fish. The messenger was not kept waiting long at the legation, but in the course of an hour had returned to the state department with the minister's application for his passports.

Savoy later made a second trip, carrying with him the desired paper. This was a passport for the minister and his family and suite. It was not in the usual form, but was what is known as a special passport. In general terms, it is similar to that presented to Lord Sackville-West, when that unfortunate minister was obliged to retire. In this case it reads as follows:

"United States of America,
Department of State.
To All to Whom These Presents Shall Come:

"GREETING—Know ye, that the bearer hereof, Don Luis Polo y Bernabe, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Spain to the United States, accompanied by his family and suite, is about to travel abroad.

"These are therefore to request all state thereof, to permit him to pass freely without let or molestation, and to extend to him all friendly aid and protection in case of need.

"In testimony whereof I, John Sherman, secretary of state of the United States of America, have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the secretary of state to be affixed at Washington this 20th day of April, A. D., 1898, and of the independence of the United States of America, the 122nd."

A statement was posted at the department, saying the text of the ultimatum would be made public today.

The Spanish minister's request for his passports, sent immediately on the receipt of the ultimatum, was addressed to Secretary Sherman, and said:

"MR. SECRETARY—The resolution adopted by the congress of the United States of America, and approved today by the president, is of such a nature that my presence in Washington becomes impossible, and obliges me to request you the delivery of my passports. The protection of the Spanish interests will be entrusted to the French ambassador and to the Austrian-Hungarian minister. On this occasion, very painful to me, I have the honor to renew to you the assurances of my highest consideration.

"LUIS POLO DE BERNABE."

The next move is to be made by Spain, according to the department officials. If the Spanish government takes a view, as might possibly be concluded from the action of its minister, that in language and terms the congressional resolution is insulting, it may promptly hand Mr. Woodford his passports upon receipt of this communication, and thus bring the negotiations to the crisis and cause a breach of diplomatic relations within the next few hours. If, on the other hand, it should neglect to return a satisfactory answer before Saturday noon, that line of policy will be quite as effective as a positive act, inasmuch as it would amount to a refusal of the demands of the United States.

In such case, the president would proceed immediately to use the naval and military forces of the United States to execute the will of congress. How this will be done, what steps shall first be taken, whether Havana shall be blockaded, or whether an attempt shall be made to make a speedy campaign by hurling a large force of troops into Havana under cover of a bombardment by a fleet, are matters of mere speculation. The experts of the army and navy have laid their plans with the greatest detail for the future, but they do not hesitate to say that any attempt to make these public in advance to the manifest advantage of Spain would be actual treason.

The statement is made on high authority that Tomas Estrada Palma, the president of the Cuban republic in this country, in company with one of the brigadiers of Gomez' army, has been in consultation with General Miles arranging for co-operation in the conduct of the campaign in Cuba against Spain. This is taken as a virtual recognition of the Cuban republic. It is stated that Palma was summoned here for this conference.

An outline of the policy to be followed by this government in the treatment of neutrals and the matter of privateering is contained in the following statement:

"In the event of hostilities between the United States and Spain, it will be the policy of this government, not to resort to privateering. The government will adhere to the following rules:

"First, neutral flag covers enemies' goods with the exception of contraband of war; second, neutral goods not contraband of war are not liable to confiscation under enemies' flag; third, blockades in order to be binding must be effective."

This doctrine is undoubtedly laid down to meet the various inquiries received by the diplomatic representatives of the United States, from foreign governments, as to the attitude assumed by the United States. It is substantially the same as that assumed in the recent Chinese-Japanese war and places the United States in a most advanced position so far as the protection of individual property and neutral goods at sea is concerned. By it, Spanish goods are made free from seizure on the seas in the bottoms of a neutral power. This decision on the part of our government will doubtless be welcomed in Europe.

Word came to the navy department that the Spanish cruisers Pelayo, Vizcaya and Oquendo are all at present at Cape Verde islands, in company with the torpedo-boat flotilla. It is realized that this constitutes a most formidable naval force, in the opinion of experts, equal to our crack flying squadron now lying in Hampton Roads.

The department is a good deal disturbed about the torpedo-boat Somers, now lying at Falmouth, England, and is casting about for means to bring her to the United States with safety, so far without success.

No purchases of ships were made during the day, but the offerings continue in undiminished numbers.

Nearly all of the time of Secretary Alger, General Miles and Adjutant General Corbin was consumed in the consideration of the best means to secure the volunteers needed for the army, but this complicated question has not yet been settled.

Captain Duvall, the artillery expert and special aide to Secretary Alger, who has been making an inspection of the southern seacoast defenses, returned to Washington and reported the results of his trip to Adjutant General Corbin. For prudential reasons the result can not be made public.

TROOPS ARE RUSHING TO SOUTHERN POINTS.

Scenes of Great Enthusiasm Throughout the Country—General Miles to Inspect Them.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—From all over the country the United States troops are pushing toward Chattanooga, Mobile, Tampa and Atlanta.

It is reported that the enthusiasm is general in the country. Nearly every railway station is decorated, particularly along the routes of the troops now in motion. At every hamlet and village the flag was in evidence and cheering thousands gave the troops an ovation.

The present expectation is that General Miles, commanding the army, will leave the city on Saturday for a tour of inspection of the points where the regular army will be mobilized in the south. He will be accompanied by a number of his aids, and the first stop, it is now said, will be at the Chickamauga battlefield. After spending some time there the general will proceed to the other points, returning thereafter to Washington.

Colonel C. R. Greenleaf, assistant surgeon general, now stationed at San Francisco, has been ordered to Washington for duty on the staff of General Miles, and Captain James Allen will serve on the staff as signal officer.

General A. W. Greely, chief signal officer, has detailed Lieutenant Joseph E. Maxfield, stationed at New York, to take charge of all matters pertaining to the question of providing balloons for the use of the army.

General Wilson, chief of engineers, has issued orders for the immediate preparation of the pontoon train at the military academy, West Point, for use in military operations in Cuba.

Such information as the war department has been able to obtain from persons familiar with the Cuban climate has led them to believe that the proposed mule pack trains are about the only means available for the transportation of supplies to an army in the field in Cuba.

The regular quartermasters' trains of fine four-wheeled wagons, drawn by from six to eight mules, it is said, would be absolutely useless in Cuba during the rainy season, though they may be availed of after that should the war last.

CHATTANOOGA, April 21.—Cavalry and artillery from all parts of the country have been pouring into Chattanooga. Major General John R. Brooke, and his staff of the department of the lakes, arrived from Chicago to assume command at the Chickamauga camping ground.

USING GREAT PRECAUTIONS.

War Fleet at Key West Protected as Night—Mayflower Arrives.

KEY WEST, April 21.—The United States torpedo-boat destroyer Mayflower has arrived here and anchored near the flagship New York. It is possible that the Mayflower will be Captain Sampson's flagship, as she can get around quicker than the New York.

All deck lights on board the New York, Iowa and Indiana, which lie out of Key West harbor, are now extinguished before 8 p. m., when the battle ports are screwed on and the formidable warships can hardly be seen from each others' deck except when an occasional searchlight flashing around reveals their dark outlines. Besides this precaution the night patrol has been

WOODFORD READY TO GO

Tickets Bought For the South of France.

ULTIMATUM MAY BE IGNORED.

Likely to Get His Passports Before He Delivers It—Archives Turned Over to the British Ambassador—The Queen's Speech to the Cortes.

MADRID, April 21.—General Woodford's family left last night by the ordinary express for Biarritz. The American minister himself has taken tickets for the south of France express today.

MINISTER WOODFORD.

He has received extensive dispatches of instructions.

It is doubted whether he will have an opportunity of presenting the American ultimatum since all probability Senor Gullon, the foreign minister, will send him his passports today with a declaration that diplomatic relations between the two governments have been broken off. General Woodford has handed the archives of the legation to the British ambassador, where he dined last night.

The opening of the Spanish cortes was a magnificent sight. All the wealth and beauty of Madrid gathered in the senate, where every available foot of space was occupied. Large bodies of troops were drawn up outside the building. All the members of the diplomatic corps were present in full dress. A wild cheer announced the arrival of the queen regent.

She read the speech from the throne while seated, with the young king, Alfonso, on her right, and the premier, Senor Sagasta, standing near the king.

At the close of her majesty's speech there was renewed cheering, after which, Premier Sagasta declared the cortes opened, and the queen regent and the boy king, accompanied by the court, left the building amid another wild burst of enthusiasm.

The queen's speech began: "The grave anxieties which saddened my mind the last time I addressed you have increased, and are heightened by public uneasiness, conveying the presentiment of fresher and greater complications as a result of the turn events in Cuba have taken. The complications were brought about by a section of the people of the United States, which, seeing that the autonomy previously offered in my message was about to be put in force, foresaw that the free manifestation of Cuban people, through its chambers, would frustrate forever the schemes against Spanish sovereignty which have been plotted by those who, with resources and hopes sent from the neighboring coast, have fettered the suppression of the insurrection in that unhappy land. Should the government of the United States yield to this blind current, the menace and insults which we have hitherto been able to regard with indifference, for they were not an expression of the sentiments of the true American nation, would become intolerable provocation, which would compel my government, in defense of the national dignity, to sever relations with the government of the United States.

"In this supreme crisis, the sacred voice of him who represents human justice on earth was raised in counsels of peace and prudence, to which my government had no difficulty in hearkening, strong in the consciousness of its right, and calm in the strict performance of its duties."

Her majesty added: "Spain's gratitude is due to the pope, and also to the great powers, whose action strengthens my conviction that Spain's cause deserves universal sympathy."

Continuing, her majesty said: "Possibly, however, the peace efforts may fail to control the evil passions excited against Spain. Lest this moment arrive I have summoned the cortes to defend our right, whatever sacrifice they may entail. Thus I, identifying myself with the nation, I not only fulfill the oath I swore in accepting the regency, but I follow the dictates of a mother's heart, trusting to the Spanish people to defend their king and their throne, and to defend it with as much courage as to defend it himself, as well as trusting to the Spanish people to defend the honor and the territory of the nation."

CUBA IS RECOGNIZED.

Foraker Said in the Senate He Had Positive Information to This Effect.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—During the five hours of discussion in the senate of it's recent actions upon the Cuban resolutions, in the course of which several extended speeches were made by several senators who voted against the conference report on the resolutions, only one new point was developed. That was made by Mr. Foraker (O.), in the course of a brief statement concerning the recognition of the Cuban republic's independence. He said: "I think quickly, speedily, possibly even now, on the very day when the ultimatum has been sent to Spain, pursuant to the resolutions that passed here, this government has practically recognized the republic of Cuba, and I think possibly it is true we will all know by tomorrow that the government is today being officially dealt with by the representatives of this government as it should be."

This utterance, coming from a member of the foreign relations committee, created a profound impression among senators. Being pressed for the source of his information, Mr. Foraker replied that his information "was positive, but not official."

An amendment was agreed to in the sundry civil bill providing for the payment to Great Britain of the Bering sea award, amounting to $473,151.

EMERGENCY WAR MEASURE

Bill Empowering the President to Call Out Volunteers Passed by the House.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The house has passed as an emergency war measure the bill empowering the president to call out the volunteer forces and providing for their organization. Both the president and Secretary Alger had urged the important necessity for the passage of the bill. Chairman Hull of the military committee drove it through under whip and spur.

The principal change made in the bill as introduced was that the appointment of all regimental officers are to be made by the governors of the states instead of by the president, as was proposed originally by the war department. This action conforms to the practice of the civil war.

THOMSON NOT APPOINTED.

Nevertheless He Is Willing to Assist the Administration, if Needed.

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—President Frank Thomson of the Pennsylvania railroad was seen by reporter in reference to his reported appointment on the staff of the secretary of war to look after the transportation of the army.

Mr. Thomson stated that no such appointment had been made, but that the administration at Washington was cognizant of the fact that it could rely freely upon him for any service he could render in any emergency that might arise.

He said he did not believe that there would be occasion for any special military organization, such as was necessary during the rebellion, when the reconstruction, operation and management of railways taken from the Confederates was an important factor in the prosecution of the war.

Patriotic Americans in Transvaal.

CAPE TOWN, April 21.—Americans in Transvaal offer to raise a force of 2,000 men and defray cost of transportation to fight against Spain.

MOODY AROUSED PATRIOTISM.

Had a Letter of Assurance to the President Read at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, April 21.—A burst of patriotism opened the Moody-Chapman revival meeting in the exposition building last night. At the request of Mr. Moody Mr. W. H. McMillan read a letter of assurance to President McKinley, and when he had finished 6,000 citizens of Pittsburg rose as one man and signified their approval of the sentiments expressed.

Then "America" was chanted, and the mighty chorus almost raised the roof. Seldom does such a scene occur at a religious meeting. The letter will be sent at once to Washington.

SPAIN'S THREAT.

The Location of the First Naval Battle Officials Say, Will Be a Surprise.

MADRID, April 21.—The utmost reticence is observed now regarding the Spanish warships, and in official circles here it is said that the location of the first naval battle will be a veritable surprise.

Mayor Bough Will Allow No Boxing

AT ANY PUBLIC EXHIBITION

He Directed Chief Johnson to Notify the Proprietors of the Thompson Combination That a Change Was Necessary in the Program—The Change Was Made.

For the first time in the history of East Liverpool a mayor of the city has had the moral courage to prevent a sparring exhibition when he knew it to be against the law.

Among the most widely advertised attractions for the performance at the Grand last night was sparring, but when the time for it arrived the manager appeared on the stage with the men, and said the mayor had prohibited the bout. There was no demonstration, and the performance went on.

Mayor Bough had carefully investigated the case, and early in the evening Chief Johnson was dispatched to the opera house with the ultimatum. He informed the manager that because of the existence of an ordinance "to prevent sparring exhibitions and other misdemeanors" the program would have to be changed. The manager protested, saying the performance was allowed in all other places, but the protest counted for nothing. The chief was firm, and there was no boxing.

Mayor Bough said this morning that he proposed to enforce the law to the letter.

Bill Passed Unanimously In the State Senate.

BICYCLE PATH BILL & LAW.

Alexander's Measure Prohibiting the Depositing of Public Funds in Banks Went Through in the Upper Branch. Number of Bills Passed in the House.

COLUMBUS, April 21.—The senate has passed Mr. Blake's bill forbidding saloon and disreputable houses in the vicinity of all state institutions.

Senator Alexander's bill, giving to soldiers, qualified electors of Ohio, the right to vote while in service and out of the state, passed the senate unanimously.

Mr. Niles' bill passed the senate and became a law. It authorizes trust companies to act as executors in counties having cities of more than 20,000 population.

A bill introduced by Senator Jones provides that a man may be sent to the penitentiary for five years for stealing, poisoning or even kicking a bird or foxhound.

Men who escort women to trains are to be allowed to go inside the gates at railway stations, even if they have no tickets. This is the purpose of the bill of Senator Kennon passed by the senate.

Senator Alexander's bill, which is an attack on the rather prevalent habit of public officials depositing public funds in banks and then withdrawing the interest, went through the upper branch. It prohibits the depositing of public funds in banks.

The senate has made a law of the Rankin bicycle path bill. By its provisions county commissioners may tax wheels $1 a year and with the proceeds make bicycle paths. These paths are to be in charge of a special superintendent and people who maliciously mar them are to be prosecuted.

These bills passed in the house: Mr. Wiley, defining the crime of conspiracy against industry.

Mr. Bolin, providing that the state shall pay to Pickaway county the sum of $2,864.94, costs paid by it in the trial of Colonel A. B. Coit, charged with manslaughter during the Washington C. H. riot.

Mr. Swain providing that bridges over streams on abandoned turnpikes can be rebuilt by the county.

Mr. Jones, appropriating $13,000 for publishing Howe's history of Ohio.

Mr. Smith (Delaware), providing for a quartermaster's department of the O. N. G.

Mr. Meacham, providing that a right of way shall not be forfeited if an average of $1,000 per mile has been expended for construction within ten years.

Mr. Norris, authorizing county commissioners to create a judicial fund by making a levy not to exceed one-fourth of a mill.

Mr. Scott, requiring that stocks of merchandise, ore, etc., not in transit shall be listed for taxation; also requiring the separate property of a wife or that in the hands of an assignee or agent shall be listed; providing that before he places omitted property on the duplicate the auditor shall notify the person affected of the same.

Mr. Ludwig, giving county commissioners additional power to remove obstructions to streams.

Mr. Wiley, authorizing the commissioner of railroads and telegraphs to investigate charges of discrimination.

Mr. Parker, establishing a battalion of engineers so as to attach the Cleveland Grays to the O. N. G.

Mr. Connelly, providing that only incorporated banks can be made county depositories.

Senate bill by Mr. Brorin, providing that aged or infirm deaf and dumb persons in county infirmaries may, on approval of the state board of charities, be sent to homes provided for such infirm or aged deaf and dumb persons.

Senate bill by Mr. Decker, amending the Australian ballot law so as to make it obligatory on election officers to provide cloth screens or other obstructions to the view at voting booths.

SUNDAY BASEBALL ILLEGAL.

The Ohio State Supreme Court in a Decision So Declares.

CLEVELAND, April 21.—The Ohio supreme court has decided that baseball playing on Sunday is illegal. The schedule for every club in the National League provides for games in this city some time during the season on Sunday. The change will cause a rearrangement of the plans for the season.

The Interstate League will also find itself in trouble, the management having intended to play on Sunday. The decision also applies to other Sunday amusements in this state.

He Had Wounded One of the Gang Who Held Up a Train.

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—The Santa Fe overland No. 1, westbound, has been held up at the Mojave river bridge, two miles west of Oro Grande, in San Bernardino county. Engineer Gifford was killed by one of the robbers, who was mortally wounded by Gifford in an exchange of shots. The robbers rifled the mail car of registered mail.

The Popular Fox Terrier.

All terriers are good. They are as shrewd, game, loyal small chaps as ever stood upon canine feet or gazed at their owner with soulful, loving eyes, and of them all I prefer the fox terrier, either wire haired or smooth coated. These aristocratic, diminutive gentlemen unquestionably are today the most popular dogs in the wide, wide world, and there are many excellent reasons why this should be so. From the palace to the cottage these dogs have proved their sterling qualities to the satisfaction of all concerned, and they are especially well suited to the conditions which govern in crowded centers.

When the big St. Bernard, mastiff, Dane or other heavy breed is panting in the contracted back yard, howling on chain, pining for exercise and freedom, the terrier is merely having fun, busying himself about the house, warning off doubtful intruders and generally attending to everything which appears to require supervision. Clever, alert and stout hearted, he never relaxes his guard, and he fears nothing. His cleverness as a rule is a safeguard against his making mistakes regarding the desirability of visiting strangers. He seems instinctively to recognize persons who are not wanted about the premises, and woe to them if their mission be evil and their desire a stealthy invasion. He protests promptly and vigorously, and he will not cease until some one of his household has appeared and taken charge of the matter.—Ed W. Sandys in Outing.

The Lion of Keos.

There are lions and lions, but the lion of Ioul is the lion of Hellas, says Professor J. Irving Mannatt in The Atlantic. The lions on guard above the gate of Mycenae may be older, but they have lost their heads and therewith their main majesty. The lion sentinel over Leonidas' grave at Thermopylae disappeared ages ago, though we still possess the inscription written for it by Simonides:

Of beasts the bravest I, of mortals he, Upon this mound of stone now watched by me.

The lion of Cheronia commemorates a great and definite event, but he has been broken to pieces. Better luck has attended the lion of Keos. Couched here on his flank in the living rock, with reverted head, 28 feet from tip to tail, every feature perfect, full of life and majesty, one can hardly think of him as a mere image made with hands. He looks rather as if in some prehistoric age—the colossus of his kind—he might have lain down here alive and turned to stone, possibly after clearing the island of its first occupants, for there is a myth handed down to us by an old writer that Keos was originally inhabited by the nymphs until they were scared away by a lion and fled to Karystos, leaving to the "jumping off place" the name of Lion point. At all events the monument and the myth make a perfect fit. Our lion is the very beast to strike terror into nymphs or any other unwelcome neighbors.

Horace Greeley's Eccentric Ideas.

Even his eccentric ideas were made plausible by his treatment. I heard him say once that what was then thought to be the Great American desert ought to be planted with Canada thistles so as to give nature some sort of a green start, when other vegetation might be made to follow. But the trouble is Canada thistles, like any other thing inspired by "pure cussedness," will only grow and thrive where they ought not to. Find a place where their presence would do some good, and, as in the Humpty Dumpty case, "all the king's horses and all the king's men" could not fasten them there. This perverseness suggests in a certain way the small boys' conception of good and bad—his enchilderment of nature and life.

"What's fun," he said, "is always wicked; what we don't want to do is pious."

Mr. Greeley would cut down his alders in the spring. When I mildly suggested to him that our agricultural authorities preferred the autumn for that work, when nature could not so well aid their struggle for existence, he thought this reason was a mere excuse for not cutting them at all.—Joel Benton in Harper's Magazine.

Lafayette in Maine.

"It was during the administration of Governor Albion K. Parris," says the Kennebec (Me.) Journal, "that General Lafayette visited the state. He was in the United States and paid his visit to Maine. It was on a Sunday that the general concluded that visit and proposed leaving the state for Portland."

Governor Parris remonstrated with him for taking his departure on that day and said, 'If you will postpone your trip until Monday, I will myself escort you to the state line with all the military honors.' But Lafayette, accustomed to the continental Sabbath, insisted on not altering his plans and left Maine on Sunday, while the Sabbath honoring governor of a God fearing state attended his church service as was his habit."

SIGNALING WITH BALLOONS.

The New Code Is Most Intricate—Illuminated Balloons Are Also Used.

The balloons from Fort Logan, Colo., to be used by the signal corps in case of hostilities are assigned to Captain James Allen, signal officer on General Merritt's staff. In case of war balloon signaling will be one of the most interesting features. To a certain extent it will be experimental. Balloons have been used heretofore, but only in the simplest forms of signaling. The new code is most intricate and when thoroughly understood is expected to be as complete as the telegraph.

There are many ways of signaling from and with a balloon. The various systems now in use by the signal corps, including flags, lights, heliograph, lanterns, telegraphy and telephone, can all be operated from a captive balloon. Signaling with an illuminated balloon is a picturesque feature of the work of the signal corps. Two captive balloons are allowed to ascend to a height above any obstacle intervening. They may be 40 or 50 miles apart. From these sun flashes are made during the day, and at night messages are sent by means of illumination inside the balloons with incandescent electric lights. The alternating illumination and darkness are arranged in accordance with a prearranged code.

The outfit of the balloon corps is extensive, and most of the implements are modern. In addition to the routine signaling apparatus, cameras for photographing the surrounding country are carried, and explosive shells can be dropped down upon the enemy should occasion arise.—New York World.

Appetite of the Florida Alligator.

The Florida alligator has an appetite that is hard to appease. A fisherman, weary with ill luck, pulled off his boots, stretched himself on the river's green bank and went to sleep. A saurian in search of a dinner spied the sleeping fisherman, crawled up the bank, swallowed him and retired in good order. But after a time he remembered that the late fisherman's boots were also reposing on the bank. A dinner without dessert was no dinner at all, so he returned to taper off on the boots. But while he was in the act of swallowing them another fisherman, recently arrived, shot him dead. Probably the moral in this story is, "Some alligators never know when they have enough."—Atlanta Constitution.

"ASLEEP!"

Nothing so appeals to a mother's heart as the sight of her baby asleep. This is doubly true when the white lips, the fevered brow, the blue lines beneath the eyes and the thin little hands tell the pathetic story that baby is ill. To the child that comes into the world robust and healthy, the ordinary ills of childhood are not a serious menace; but to the weak, puny baby with the seeds of disease implanted in its little body even before birth, they are a serious matter and frequently mean baby's death.

The woman who wants a strong, healthy baby must see to it that she does not suffer from weakness and disease of the important and delicate organs concerned in motherhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly on these organs, allaying inflammation, healing ulceration and soothing pain. It fits a woman for wifehood and motherhood. It banishes the discomforts of the period of anticipation and makes baby's entry to the world easy and almost painless. It insures the new-comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. It rides maternity of its perils. It has caused many a childless home to ring with the happy laughter of healthy children. Over 90,000 women have testified to its marvelous merits. It is the discovery of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. All medicine dealers sell it. Ailing women who write to Dr. Pierce will receive free his best advice.

Scores of women who have been cured of obstinate and dangerous diseases by Dr. Pierce's medicines have told their experiences in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It contains 1008 pages, over 300 engravings and colored plates, and is free. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, for paper-covered copy; cloth binding 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Mothers, Don't Scold

Your Children, They Are Not to Blame—Try to Help Them.

Many an East Liverpool mother, on reading this, will appreciate the boon the information will bring. Thousands of children have been scolded time and again for the so-called habit when they are not to blame. Wet beds have been the resting place of the little ones night after night, and no amount of chiding or scolding could prevent a repetition. If the mothers only knew their little boys and girls were not to blame; they cannot help it. It is not a habit. It is simply weak kidneys. At last a preparation has been found so gentle in its action that the youngest child can take it. We refer to Doan's Kidney Pills and when the public knows it there need be nothing but clean, sweet, dry beds for the children and no more need for scolding.

Mrs. William McBride, No. 282 West Bloom street, Mansfield, O., says: "My little boy when he was eight weeks old was attacked with rheumatism. He recovered from the immediate effects of that trouble but he always had weak kidneys. This gave a great deal of trouble both during the night and the day on account of the inability to retain kidney secretions. It apparently had the effect of making him poorly, for his appetite would flag and he did not thrive. We were anxious to get something that would benefit him, so when we read about Doan's Kidney Pills we procured a box to try. We gave him half a pill at a time and we were very much pleased to notice that he was taking a turn for the better and showed steady improvement. Under their influence the power of retention came back. His appetite mended and he improved in every way.

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold for 50 cents per box. For sale by mail on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

He Was Actually Clean!

Colonel Ibbetson, who died recently in England, was a capital whist player and an insatiable reader. In the interval between games he invariably plunged into a book, never indulging in futile discussions about the plays. He was the hero of the last sensational elopement to Gretna Green. Forty-four years ago he ran off with the Lady Adela Villiers, daughter of the Earl of Jersey. They were never fully pardoned, as it was thought that she had been guilty of a grave misalliance. Indeed the story is told that when they got back to town Lady Adela was reported to have exclaimed to her sister, "I had no idea till I married that the lower orders were so clean in their habits."

His cleverness as a rule is a safeguard against his making mistakes regarding the desirability of visiting strangers. He seems instinctively to recognize persons who are not wanted about the premises, and woe to them if their mission be evil and their desire a stealthy invasion. He protests promptly and vigorously, and he will not cease until some one of his household has appeared and taken charge of the matter.—Ed W. Sandys in Outing.

The Lion of Keos.

There are lions and lions, but the lion of Ioul is the lion of Hellas, says Professor J. Irving Mannatt in The Atlantic. The lions on guard above the gate of Mycenae may be older, but they have lost their heads and therewith their main majesty. The lion sentinel over Leonidas' grave at Thermopylae disappeared ages ago, though we still possess the inscription written for it by Simonides:

Of beasts the bravest I, of mortals he, Upon this mound of stone now watched by me.

The lion of Cheronia commemorates a great and definite event, but he has been broken to pieces. Better luck has attended the lion of Keos. Conched here on his flank in the living rock, with reverted head, 28 feet from tip to tail, every feature perfect, full of life and majesty, one can hardly think of him as a mere image made with hands. He looks rather as if in some prehistoric age—the colossus of his kind—he might have lain down here alive and turned to stone, possibly after clearing the island of its first occupants, for there is a myth handed down to us by an old writer that Keos was originally inhabited by the nymphs until they were scared away by a lion and fled to Karystos, leaving to the "jumping off place" the name of Lion point. At all events the monument and the myth make a perfect fit. Our lion is the very beast to strike terror into nymphs or any other unwelcome neighbors.

Horace Greeley's Eccentric Ideas.

Even his eccentric ideas were made plausible by his treatment. I heard him say once that what was then thought to be the Great American desert ought to be planted with Canada thistles so as to give nature some sort of a green start, when other vegetation might be made to follow. But the trouble is Canada thistles, like any other thing inspired by "pure cussedness," will only grow and thrive where they ought not to. Find a place where their presence would do some good, and, as in the Humpty Dumpty case, "all the king's horses and all the king's men" could not fasten them there. This perverseness suggests in a certain way the small boys' conception of good and bad—his encliridion of nature and life.

"What's fun," he said, "is always wicked; what we don't want to do is pious."

Mr. Greeley would cut down his alders in the spring. When I mildly suggested to him that our agricultural authorities preferred the autumn for that work, when nature could not so well aid their struggle for existence, he thought this reason was a mere excuse for not cutting them at all.—Joel Benton in Harper's Magazine.

Lafayette in Maine.

"It was during the administration of Governor Albion K. Parris," says the Kennebec (Me.) Journal, "that General Lafayette visited the state from Portland to the United States and paid his visit to Maine. It was on a Sunday that the general concluded that visit and proposed leaving the state from Portland.

Governor Parris remonstrated with him for taking his departure on that day and said, 'If you will postpone your trip until Monday, I will myself escort you to the state line with all the military honors.' But Lafayette, accustomed to the continental Sabbath, insisted on not altering his plans and left Maine on Sunday, while the Sabbath honoring governor of a God fearing state attended his church service as was his habit."

SIGNALING WITH BALLOONS.

The New Code Is Most Intricate—Illuminated Balloons Are Also Used.

The balloons from Fort Logan, Colo., to be used by the signal corps in case of hostilities are assigned to Captain James Allen, signal officer on General Merritt's staff. In case of war balloon signaling will be one of the most interesting features. To a certain extent it will be experimental. Balloons have been used heretofore, but only in the simplest forms of signaling. The new code is most intricate and when thoroughly understood is expected to be as complete as the telegraph.

There are many ways of signaling from and with a balloon. The various systems now in use by the signal corps, including flags, lights, heliograph, lanterns, telegraphy and telephone, can all be operated from a captive balloon. Signaling with an illuminated balloon is a picturesque feature of the work of the signal corps. Two captive balloons are allowed to ascend to a height above any obstacle intervening. They may be 40 or 50 miles apart. From these sun flashes are made during the day, and at night messages are sent by means of illumination inside the balloons with incandescent electric lights. The alternating illumination and darkness are arranged in accordance with a prearranged code.

The outfit of the balloon corps is extensive, and most of the implements are modern. In addition to the routine signaling apparatus, cameras for photographing the surrounding country are carried, and explosive shells can be dropped down upon the enemy should occasion arise.—New York World.

Appetite of the Florida Alligator.

The Florida alligator has an appetite that is hard to appease. A fisherman, weary with ill luck, pulled off his boots, stretched himself on the river's green bank and went to sleep. A saurian in search of a dinner spied the sleeping fisherman, crawled up the bank, swallowed him and retired in good order. But after a time he remembered that the late fisherman's boots were also reposing on the bank. A dinner without dessert was no dinner at all, so he returned to taper off on the boots. But while he was in the act of swallowing them another fisherman, recently arrived, shot him dead. Probably the moral in this story is, "Some alligators never know when they have enough."—Atlanta Constitution.

Where the World Lives.

Of every 1,000 inhabitants of the globe 558 live in Asia, 242 in Europe, 111 in Africa, 82 in America, 5 in Oceania and the polar regions and only 2 in Australia. Asia contains more than one-half of the total population of the earth and Europe nearly one-fourth.—London Tit-Bits.

To Repel Invasion From Mexico.

DALLAS, April 21.—Governor Culberson has ordered the entire Texas Ranger corps to the Mexican frontier, to repel any invasion from that country that Spanish sympathizers may make. Orders were issued to recruit every company to double its present strength.

Spurgeon's Old Tabernacle Burned.

LONDON, April 21.—The Baptist chapel, known as Spurgeon's tabernacle, or the Metropolitan tabernacle, in the southern part of London, has been destroyed by fire. It was opened in 1861 and was made famous by Rev. Charles Haddon Spurgeon, who died in 1892.

"ASLEEP!"

Nothing so appeals to a mother's heart as the sight of her baby asleep. This is doubly true when the white lips, the fevered brow, the blue lines beneath the eyes and the thin little hands tell the pathetic story that baby is ill. To the child that comes into the world robust and healthy, the ordinary ills of childhood are not a serious menace; but to the weak, puny baby with the seeds of disease implanted in its little body even before birth, they are a serious matter and frequently mean baby's death.

The woman who wants a strong, healthy baby must see to it that she does not suffer from weakness and disease of the important and delicate organs concerned in motherhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly on these organs, allaying inflammation, healing ulceration and soothing pain. It fits a woman for wifehood and motherhood. It banishes the discomforts of the period of anticipation and makes baby's entry to the world easy and almost painless. It insures the new-comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. It rids maternity of its perils. It has caused many a childless home to ring with the happy laughter of healthy children. Over 90,000 women have testified to its marvelous merits. It is the discovery of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. All medicine dealers sell it. Ailing women who write to Dr. Pierce will receive free his best advice.

Scores of women who have been cured of obstinate and dangerous diseases by Dr. Pierce's medicines have told their experiences in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It contains 1008 pages, over 300 engravings and colored plates, and is free. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, for paper-covered copy; cloth binding 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Mothers, Don't Scold

Your Children, They Are Not to Blame—Try to Help Them.

Many an East Liverpool mother, on reading this, will appreciate the boon the information will bring. Thousands of children have been scolded time and again for the so-called habit when they are not to blame. Wet beds have been the resting place of the little ones night after night, and no amount of chiding or scolding could prevent a repetition. If the mothers only knew their little boys and girls were not to blame; they cannot help it. It is not a habit. It is simply weak kidneys. At last a preparation has been found so gentle in its action that the youngest child can take it. We refer to Doan's Kidney Pills and when the public knows it there need be nothing but clean, sweet, dry beds for the children and no more need for scolding.

Mrs. William McBride, No. 282 West Bloom street, Mansfield, O., says: "My little boy when he was eight weeks old was attacked with rheumatism. He recovered from the immediate effects of that trouble but he always had weak kidneys. This gave a great deal of trouble both during the night and the day on account of the inability to retain kidney secretions. It apparently had the effect of making him poorly, for his appetite would flag and he did not thrive. We were anxious to get something that would benefit him, so when we read about Doan's Kidney Pills we procured a box to try. We gave him half a pill at a time and we were very much pleased to notice that he was taking a turn for the better and showed steady improvement. Under their influence the power of retention came back. His appetite mended and he improved in every way.

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold for 50 cents per box. For sale by mail on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

He Was Actually Clean!

Colonel Ibbetson, who died recently in England, was a capital whist player and an insatiable reader. In the interval between games he invariably plunged into a book, never indulging in futile discussions about the plays. He was the hero of the last sensational elopement to Græta Green. Forty-four years ago he ran off with the Lady Adela Villiers, daughter of the Earl of Jersey. They were never fully pardoned, as it was thought that she had been guilty of a grave misalliance. Indeed the story is told that when they got back to town Lady Adela was reported to have exclaimed to her sister, "I had no idea till I married that the lower orders were so clean in their habits."

Chelsea district, in London, utilizes its street refuse, by separating the rags and paper, which are sold to rag and paper dealers, while the rest of the refuse is burned in the furnaces of the reduction works and the residuum is used in brickmaking.

MERCER WON THE GAME.

But They Batted Him All Over the Field.

Winnie Mercer yesterday pitched his first game for Washington and won by a score of 8 to 6. Brooklyn touched him up for 14 hits, while he had one putout, one assist and two errors in the game.

George Carey played another good game for Louisville yesterday and made a two bagger, a single and had 13 putouts and one assist to his credit.

Union Prayer Meeting.

There will be a union prayer meeting held in the Methodist Protestant church on Friday evening, April 23, at 8 o'clock. This meeting is the outgrowth of the prayer services held during the day of the late election, and good to East Liverpool at large is the object devoutly prayed for and worked for. All women are earnestly urged to be present tomorrow night.

Wants to Go to War.

Bad Hilliard, who works as a blacksmith at Patterson's machine shop, has written to President McKinley, offering him his services in case of war with Spain. He would like to have a position in the navy, but if this cannot be secured he is willing to shoulder a musket.

Hilliard is a married man, living in Chester, and is over six feet in height.

Death in East End.

Miss Lillie McKinnon aged 13 years daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion McKinnon, of East End, died at the home of her parents last night. She had been ill for some weeks with typhoid fever which caused her death. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon.

Bought Him Shoes.

The other evening a small child with its toes out of its shoes walked into the Carrol club. The boy was known to a number of the members, and in a short time a collection was taken sufficiently large to purchase the child a pair of shoes.

Taken Suddenly Ill.

An employe of the decorating department of the Brunt pottery was taken suddenly ill yesterday afternoon with heart failure. She was taken to her home in Elm street, and will be unable to work for a few days.

SNOW DAYS.

Oh, the children love the snow, and they never grumble over it! Old winter snaps, but in their wraps they toss and tumble over it. In a laughing, jolly jumble, Through a snowdrift first they stumble. Then a snow man, like a dough man— Though he really looks like no man— They freeze stiff as any Roman, Ere he has a chance to crumble. So, hello! Who loves the snow Let him out a-playing go!

On the road it makes a cushion so the wheels can't rattle over it, But all the boys in merry whirls they romp and battle over it. Then the girls, both high and humble, Bring their sleds without a grumble, And a-coasting, cheeks a-roasting, Every one of speed a-boasting, Down the hill they all go coasting, With a bounce and bounce and tumble. So, hello! Who loves the snow Let him out a-playing go!

HAUNTED BY MEMORY.

One Man Who Will Never Forget the Samoan Disaster.

"I suppose that all of us who felt the living, frenzied force of that awful on shore hurricane will dream about it occasionally as long as we live," said an ex-bluejacket of the United States navy now living in Washington, who was among the Vandalia ship's company at the time of the great naval disaster in Apia harbor, Samoa, in reverting to that experience. "For three or four years after I got out of that mess all safe and sound the memory of it used to get tangled up in my head when I was asleep, and I would wake in a tremble and be unable to sleep for the remainder of the night. But time has softened the craggier edges of the remembrance of that horrifying black wind, and once in a spell nowadays I forget all about it for two or three days at a time.

"There was one man in my mess on the Vandalia who was never quite right after we went on the reef. I was shipmate with him for two years afterward, and his occasional wildness was plain to all hands, and men who've been shipmates with him since—for he's still in the outfit—tell me that he's just as badly haunted by the memory of the disaster as he was when last I saw him. This man was a shipwright, and his name was Turley. Before we had that bad blow Turley was as cheerful and as chipper a man around decks as I ever swapped yarns with, but when he got well of his broken arms down in Apia he was a changed man. I never saw him crack a grin after the blow, and from a stout, husky fellow he became thin and haggard looking. He recovered all right physically, but in the end of the sea, but it sort of twisted his head and preyed upon him. He swung his hammock alongside of me on the Alert for two years after we were sent up to duty on the west coast again, and it was a common thing for Turley to hop out of his hammock in a frenzy in the middle of the night in port or at sea, yelling like a madman: 'All hands abandon ship! She's going to strike!' He created a lot of excitement up forward by doing this, but after awhile the men got used to it and only turned over when they heard Turley howling.

"It was the regular thing for the corporal of the marine guard at the gangway to pull the poor chap awake when he had these crazy somnambulist spells and put him back in his hammock, for he'd come out of them as weak as a kitten and trembling all over. There were a number of us on the Alert who were washed up in the Samoan disaster, and naturally once in awhile we'd get to talking about it. But it didn't take us long to find out that we couldn't talk about it while Turley was around. The mention of the thing in his hearing would bring an insane gleam into his eyes, and he would suddenly begin to talk incoherently and at the top of his voice about reefs and dragging anchors and all that, so that we learned to knock off Samoan hurricane talk when he was around. I don't wonder much either. It was an evil enough blow to nigh turn any man's headgear topsy turvy."—Washington Star.

The Cache in Alaska.

The settlements along the Yukon are few and far between and consist, for the most part, of the same elements. There are the company's store; the huts and tents of the natives; the crowd of howling dogs; salmon hanging in red strips, burnished with copper tinges in the sun; little tots of children; chattering women offering baskets, moccasins and trinkets for sale, and here and there perhaps a squad of uniformed children, marking the work of some mission—good looking, clean looking children, but, whether Christianized or not, spoiled for living like natives again. The problem is, What is to become of them? Along the banks are occasionally met the rude huts and tents of small parties of Indians come hither to cut wood for the boats or to fish, but, however simple the habitation, it must always have the cache, or storehouse, propped upon posts to keep the supplies out of reach of the dogs, for these dogs can bite through a tin can and almost climb a greased pole in search of food. The cache should have a place on the coat of arms of Alaska. It is universal. —"The River Trip to the Klondike," by John Barry Wood, in Century.

But it didn't take us long to find out that we couldn't talk about it while Turley was around. The mention of the thing in his hearing would bring an insane gleam into his eyes, and he would suddenly begin to talk incoherently and at the top of his voice about reefs and dragging anchors and all that, so that we learned to knock off Samoan hurricane talk when he was around. I don't wonder much either. It was an evil enough blow to night turn any man's headgear topsy turvy."—Washington Star.

The Cache in Alaska.

The settlements along the Yukon are few and far between and consist, for the most part, of the same elements. There are the company's store; the huts and tents of the natives; the crowd of howling dogs; salmon hanging in red strips, burnished with copper tinges in the sun; little tots of children; chattering women offering baskets, moccasins and trinkets for sale, and here and there perhaps a squad of uniformed children, marking the work of some mission—good looking, clean looking children, but, whether Christianized or not, spoiled for living like natives again. The problem is, What is to become of them? Along the banks are occasionally met the rude huts and tents of small parties of Indians come hither to cut wood for the boats or to fish, but, however simple the habitation, it must always have the cache, or storehouse, propped upon posts to keep the supplies out of reach of the dogs, for these dogs can bite through a tin can and almost climb a greased pole in search of food. The cache should have a place on the coat of arms of Alaska. It is universal. —"The River Trip to the Klondike," by John Barry.

UNION PAPERS.
All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Label at the head of their columns.

Now we will see if Spain and a lot of people in this country can fight as well as they can talk.

POLO got out in a hurry. That is probably what Polo, in spite of his official dignity, has been wanting to do for some time.

When the preachers pass resolutions commending the president for signing the Cuban resolutions, there must be cause for war.

Madrid is anxious for war, but it must be remembered that Madrid is something over 3,000 miles from the scene of probable hostilities.

SPAIN is not kind to its subjects. When the New York colony learned of the near approach of war the Spanish consul gave out the information that no provision had been made to feed them, but they would be given passage to Havana. They should not have expressed surprise, for Spain has never won lasting fame in the role of humanitarian.

NO SUNDAY BALL.

The movement to allow the playing of base ball in Ohio on Sunday has met with defeat at the hands of the supreme court, and as long as the law is a part of the statutes exhibitions of that kind will be illegal. The decision will be heard with delight by those people who have worked so long and earnestly against Sabbath desecration in this state, since it does away with the first step in that direction and will discourage all other efforts, at least for a time.

ENFORCING THE LAW.

In prohibiting a part of the performance at the opera house last night, Mayor Bough did his duty. The ordinance specifically prohibits boxing bouts, and the mayor enforced the ordinance. It is refreshing to observe that the executive of the city not only knows the law, but possesses sufficient moral courage to see that it is enforced. There have been times when the contest would have taken place without a murmur, but that day has gone by and a better time has dawned.

THE PRESIDENT.

President McKinley's enemies can no longer criticize his attitude toward Cuba. He left the whole matter in the hands of congress, promising to abide by the result of its deliberations. That result was virtually a declaration of war, and without hesitation has he accepted the situation. From now until the Spanish colors are torn from every flag staff in Cuba the president, congress and the people must be a unit. The president is in the movement, congress is enthusiastic and the response to the call for volunteers will show the people to be heart and soul for the freedom of the island and reparation for the destruction of our battleship. There are no obstacles at home. President McKinley is as anxious as any for the successful end of the project in which this country is so deeply interested.

Last Days of the Ohio General Assembly.

THE USUAL GRAB IS ON

Scenes Attendant Upon the Adjournment of the Legislature Are but a Repetition of What Has Happened Many Times Before—Jobs Are Numerous.

[Special Correspondence.]

COLUMBUS, April 21—Now that the date for the final adjournment of the legislators is set for Tuesday of next week the chaotic rush, mentioned in my last letter, is increased five fold. General matters are receiving but little consideration and almost the sole aim of members is to get through with the local bills on the calendar. This assembly is distinguished for its local legislation, but it has to its credit but few laws for the good of the whole state. When it is all done and the record made up the members will wonder what was accomplished that should take up four months of time. Perhaps it is just as well. The fewer the laws made the less damage done.

Another feature of the closing week of the legislature is the biennial "grab." During the session the members are furnished fine stationery, pencils, pens, books and other things necessary for business and comfort. To many of the members these things are a revelation, and when the end of the session comes they lay in a supply to last them for awhile. In this matter the greed of a few of the representatives is almost beyond belief. They have large store boxes brought into the hall of the house and these they fill with everything portable. There are the bill books, a set of statutes, pounds and pounds of stationery, ink stands, office knives and at the last session some of the members went so far as to send home their cuspidors and waste baskets. So far only the preliminaries of this "grab" are apparent, but it is safe to say that most of the members and their friends will be using the stationery of the state for years to come. This does not seem a very dignified proceeding for statesmen, but it takes place at the end of every session. The Seventy-third is no worse than its predecessors.

The Blue book for this year is out, and it is a very attractive little volume containing portraits and biographical sketches of the members of house and senate and state officials. Here, too, is noticed another characteristic of all large bodies of men. It is only human nature, but it is noticeable, nevertheless. The data for the biographies is furnished by the members themselves, and those who are of the least consequence have the longest records and the most praise for deeds they consider great. The really great men dispose of their personality with a few lines.

An incident that was rather amusing to those on the inside occurred last week during the debate on the resolution to adjourn on the 26th. On this proposition Representative Griffith, of Union county, posed as the champion of delay and made a plea for postponement of action. He argued that the legislature needed more time to dispose of its work and he did not see how it could be finished by the date set.

Now this same Mr. Griffith is the man who, during the senatorial fight, was on all sides of the question and caused much unfavorable comment for his lack of stamina and his limber backbone, to say nothing of harsher charges. He was elected speaker pro tem of the house, but in fact he has held about the same relation to this legislature as the fifth wheel of a wagon. He has occupied the speaker's chair less than half a dozen times during the session and his influence on legislation has been very irregular, yet Mr. Griffith appealed for more time. Perhaps he would rather stay at the capital than go back to face his constituents in Union county.

The McKinnon bill, placing all legal work in the state in the hands of the attorney general, was put through house and senate, and made into law with very little fuss. There was no debate, yet this measure is one of the most important and far reaching of any that have been passed. It was intended particularly as a blow to the department of the dairy and food commissioner, but it reaches others. It will make the department of the attorney general of much greater importance, than it now is, it will save money for the state and it will do away with the "snap" that has been enjoyed by a clique of outside lawyers.

Heretofore the attorney general has had but little to say regarding the legal work of the various state departments.

True, he has been kept busy with certain classes of work, but the great bulk of the legal business of the state has been conducted without even consulting him. Much of it against his expressed protest.

In the dairy and food department prosecutions for violations of law are continually in progress. For this work it has been the custom of the commissioner to employ outside talent entirely. In this matter Commissioner Blackburn has only followed the custom of those who came before him. Some of this litigation has been long and costly and thousands of dollars have been paid to the attorneys employed. Those who have been benefited the most by this work are D. L. Sleeper, who was speaker of the last house of representatives; Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, and Hon. Charles H. Bosler, of Dayton. It is not doubted that these men earned their money, but it is maintained by the attorney general that this work can be done through his department much cheaper. It is also claimed that because of his position it is his duty to attend to this work. If he needs more help he will employ it, and here the heads of the departments will be deprived of the opportunity to put a few dollars into the hands of their own friends. The result of the McKinnon bill will be to almost revolutionize the operations of the dairy and food department, and the workings of others will be seriously affected. Whether for better or worse remains to be seen.

Among the departments that have employed outside attorneys in important litigation are the insurance department, and the board of medical examination and registration. For the payment, of these attorneys the present legislature has been called upon to appropriate many thousands of dollars.

The passage of this law was a great victory for Mr. Monnett, as well as for the principle involved. The departments affected, aided by the attorneys they have been employing, fought it bitterly, but they seem to have made little impression on the legislators.

NO DECLARATION.

The President Does Not Think It Is Necessary.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—[Special]—It is probable there will be no formal declaration of war, as the president does not think it necessary at this time. A large number of senators agree with him. It is advised that a manifesto be sent to the powers advising them that a state of war exists between the United States and Spain.

Queerest Town In England.

The most curious town in England is Northwich. There is not a straight street nor, in fact, a straight house in the place. Every part of it has the appearance of having suffered from the visitation of an earthquake. Northwich is the center of the salt industry in Cheshire, England. On nearly all sides of the town are big salt works, with their engines pumping hundreds of thousands of gallons of brine every week. At a depth of some 200 or 300 feet are immense subterranean lakes of brine, and as the contents of these are pumped and pumped away the upper crust of earth is correspondingly weakened and the result is an occasional subsidence. These subsidences have a "pulling" effect on the nearest buildings, and they are drawn all ways, and give the town an extremely dissipated appearance.—New York Sun.

The Way It Struck Her.

He referred in the casual way that is characteristic of members of his profession to an operation at his hospital that day in which a man's rib had been removed. "And why did they do it," said the sweet girl. "Are there not enough women in the world as it is?"—New York Sun.

Borrowing Trouble.

He—I suppose you would scream and wake up everybody in the house if I were to kiss you.
She—Why is it that some folks can't help borrowing trouble?—Chicago News

EZETA RICH AGAIN.

The Exiled Ex-President From Salvador Gets His Fortune Back.

The San Francisco Examiner says: Carlos Ezeta, ex-president of Salvador, has been vindicated by his people. His vast estate, the stocks and money confiscated by the government of Guiterrez after Ezeta was forced to leave his native land four years ago, have been returned to him and Ezeta is again worth more than $2,000,000.

The money that Ezeta has used in the United States was furnished by his wife, who now is in the South American republic settling up the exiled president's affairs. She will return to San Francisco May 8. Ezeta says he will never again interest himself in Salvador politics. He is now living in Oakland, Cal.

His Journalistic Creed.

Alfred Harmsworth of the London Daily Mail is quoted as confessing to this journalistic creed in The Bookman: "I believe in hard work, but hard work is not enough."
"I believe in travel."
"I believe that half the journalistic notions of what the public wants to read are wrong."
"I believe the public is a far better critic than is usually imagined."
"I believe that the public does not care one iota about size; if anything, a small journal is preferred to a big one."
"I believe that price has very little to do with the success of a publication."
"I believe the attractions of illustrated journalism are enormously overrated."
"I believe the value of colored illustrations is grossly exaggerated."
"I believe party journalism to be practically dead."
"I believe in independence."
Sure Way to Popularity.
"I suppose the secret of his popularity is that he talks well."
"Not at all. The secret of his popularity is that he laughs well."—Chicago Post.

The foregoing is a statement of all receipts and expenditures, the amount of bonds issued, and for what purpose, of the City of East Liverpool, Ohio, for the fiscal year ending March 21, 1898, and showing the exact condition of the several funds and outstanding liabilities of the said city.

JAMES N. HANLEY, Clerk.

CURIOUS GARMENT.

Fur Capes May Be a Feature of Men's Dress Next Winter.

On a recent afternoon a man rode up Fifth avenue in New York in a victoria, seated next to a woman who was modishly dressed. The man was well dressed, save for one feature of his attire, which puzzled everybody who saw him. He wore a fur cape similar to the kind popular among women, although it looked somewhat longer. The color of the fur was dark and the hair long. The cape, although of finer fur, was of the kind worn by coachmen in cold weather. The man and the woman chatted together, and both seemed indifferent to the obvious attention which the curious garment was attracting. Reports have reached America that the fur cape has recently become fashionable in London for men who make a particular study of dress.

The style is not likely to become popular here if it always attracts the same attention that it did recently. The wearer looked as if he had picked up his wife's wrap in a hurry or borrowed it from her in the sudden chill that the weather caused. Whatever the cause of the phenomenon may have been, the result was not successful from a spectacular point of view. The sight of a middle aged man with a mustache wearing a silk hat over what looked like a woman's fur cape will need a very strong London endorsement before it ever becomes popular here. But nobody ever supposed that some articles of dress no less eccentric would ever attain the popularity which subsequently came to them, and the fur cape may be a feature of men's dress next winter.—New York Sun.

Many American weeds which are now neglected, according to a botanist, are good to eat. The tender shoots of milkweed are said to resemble in taste asparagus. Pigweed is related to beets and spinach. The nettle, too, is declared to be well flavored, although it is somewhat coarse and stringy.

The Encore Evil.

The encore fiend recently cost a New York hostess several hundred dollars. She had engaged a well known singer to entertain her guests at $100 a song. The guests were so thoroughly entranced by his music that they insisted on repetition after repetition, and each time the singer referred his admirers to the hostess, who wearily nodded her head. When the show was over, it had cost her $800 for singing alone.—New York Press.

Robert Morris' Bank of North America, founded at Philadelphia at the end of the year 1781, was the first banking institution founded on the American continent.

How They Will Know In Woonsocket.

There is great excitement down in Woonsocket. The mayor has formally notified his fellow citizens that the church bells will be rung on the firing of the first gun.—Boston Herald.

"Fweddy, why don't you let your mustache grow?"
"Why don't I let it? Good heavens, dear boy, I do, but it won't."—Chicago Record.

The natives of Siberia prepare a singularly intoxicating beverage from a common mushroom.

Good cooking was introduced into England by the Normans.

HAVANA, April 21.—[Special]—The insurgents have received the last news from the United States with every manifestation of delight.

It is understood that a delegation made up of some of the most important members of the colonial government asked for a conference with the insurgent chiefs and were promptly refused, the answer saying they had not conferred with them before and they certainly would not do it now.

CALLED THE COMMAND.

Surgeon Hobbs Is Examining the Soldiers of Company E.

Capt. W. A. Hobbs, assistant surgeon of the Eighth Ohio Infantry, this morning received a telephone message from Major Weybrecht, at Alliance, ordering him to examine every member of Company E this afternoon.

Captain Hill received orders to assemble his command at the armory, and in a short time corporals were notifying the privates of their respective squads to appear at 1 o'clock.

At the appointed time city hall presented an animated appearance. News of the order had been promptly bulle-tined at the NEWS REVIEW this morning, and a number of old soldiers were there to see the boys take their first taste of the active scenes so soon to follow. The officers were in uniform and a number of the command donned their soldier clothes.

Captain Hobbs detailed Sergeant
Trump as secretary, and the examination went rapidly on. The men were examined for the condition of their heart, lungs and physical defects or deformities and each certificate was signed by Captain Hobbs. Almost all the men will pass.

The orders provide that Captain Hobbs shall, when the work here is done, proceed to Alliance, Akron and Bucyrus, thus taking in all the companies of the battalion. The work will be completed on Sunday afternoon. Captain Hobbs left for Alliance this afternoon.

All surgeons of the Eighth are at work today, and in a few days the number of men capable of doing duty will be known.

NEW MEN

Are Being Enlisted by Captain Hill This Afternoon.

Captain Hill, in pursuance of an order from headquarters, is recruiting Company E to its full strength. There was no lack of applications at the armory this afternoon, and after being examined the following signed the roll:

Jno. A. Howard, W. S. Crewson, O.
R. McKinnon, J. H. Hughes,
James Mullen, George Reeder,
Fred Martin, Oliver Reynolds, James
Robin, Celie M. Fair, Frank Dye, Albert Kirkwood.

The list is made up of 11 potters, one laborer and one baker.

When the reporter left city hall at 2:30 more than enough applicants to fill the company were awaiting examination.

Our soda fountain is now open.

Sergeant J. W. Cornelius, chairman of the committee appointed by the Sons of Veterans to secure enlistments for the company that will go to the war, could do nothing last night because of a pressure of other business, but will be found at city hall tonight, when a meeting of the committee will be held.

The boys are enthusiastic, and there is no reason to doubt that the required number can easily be obtained. A num-presbytery.

The trustees showed the annual expenses to be $2,400, and the total amount of the pledges $1,949. An established rule does not allow the trustees to contract debts, and Mr. McChesney asked if a special effort had been made to collect money, and S. S. Cope spoke on the subject. The chairman was empower-

School Children of the Country Would Build One.

Superintendent Rayman has received a circular letter from a Cincinnati school boy who believes the school children of the country should build a battleship to take the place occupied by the Maine.
The youngster proposes to take collections in the schools, and if each scholar in the public schools but gives a penny the government will have more than enough money to build a handsome man-of-war.

Mr. Rayman showed the letter to a number of persons, and immediately
there was great enthusiasm.

The Connelly Gas Regulator

is metallic throughout, no sliding or rubbing contact of metals, or parts
at any point. This eliminates all friction, insures accurate and reliable regulation of pressure and prevents wear. It will hold your gas fires to the exact point you set them at all hours during day or night. Your incandescent burners will give a much better light and the mantles will last twice as long with accurately regulated pressure. All waste of gas due to excessive or variation of pressure is prevented by this regulator, whether used for light or heat, and on all kinds of burners or heating ap-

School Children of the Country Would Build One.

Superintendent Rayman has received a circular letter from a Cincinnati school boy who believes the school children of the country should build a battleship to take the place occupied by the Maine.
The youngster proposes to take collections in the schools, and if each scholar in the public schools but gives a penny
the government will have more than enough money to build a handsome man-of-war.

Mr. Rayman showed the letter to a number of persons, and immediately
there was great enthusiasm.

The Connelly Gas Regulator

is metallic throughout, no sliding or rubbing contact of metals, or parts
at any point. This eliminates all friction, insures accurate and reliable regulation of pressure and prevents wear. It will hold your gas fires to the exact point you set them at all hours during day or night. Your incandescent burners will give a much better light and the mantles will last twice as long with accurately regulated pressure. All waste of gas due to excessive or variation of pressure is prevented by this regulator, whether used for light or heat, and on all kinds of burners or heating appliances. We can submit hundreds of testimonials in support of every point claimed for this regulator.

ONE DEALER WAS VERY SMART

He Provoked His Competitor Into Cutting the Price, and Then Had a Friend Buy All He Would Sell—An Amusing Incident.

An amusing war of prices occurred yesterday afternoon between two well known uptown grocers.

Late in the afternoon a lady called at one of the stores and inquired the price of canned peas, and was told six cans for 25 cents. She then went into the other store and told the proprietor who immediately put out a sign announcing that he would sell seven cans for 25 cents.

This commenced the war, and the first dealer advertised eight cans for 25 cents, only to be outdone when the other proprietor put up ten cans for the same price. They continued to put down the prices, until one was offering 18 cans and the other 15 cans for a quarter.

A customer, seeing the remarkably low price, went in the store which sold 18 cans, and offered 25 cents, but the proprietor refused to take it and withdrew his sign, but the other dealer allowed his to remain.

Finally a man called and purchased 30 cans for 50 cents and departed. The proprietor at once suspected something, and sent the clerk to watch the man, who was seen to enter the back door of the rival store, presumably having purchased the goods for that institution. The proprietor was very angry, but it did him no good, and the war was declared off, although he continued to sell peas 15 cans for 25 cents.

ALONG THE HILL

Will the New County Road in Grant District Be Built.

Engineer McConnell and his force of engineers continued the work of surveying the proposed county road in Grant district today.

The road will ascend the mountain-side on an easy grade from a point near the Pusey homestead, and will follow a natural bench the entire length of the ridge, joining the old road near the lower ferry. It will be 30 feet wide and much of an improvement over the road now in use, and to be occupied by the railroad company when the Cumberland branch is extended.

CHICKEN FIGHTS.

A Number Are Listed for the Near Future.

A number of valuable roosters have recently been added to the fighting population of the city, and their owners are arranging a big cocking main for the very near future.

A resident who is in position to talk refused to say a word concerning time or place, but said the battles were already an assured fact.

Liked the Town.

Thomas O. Hall, an old Louisville newspaper man and at present with the Louisville Post, was a passenger on the Queen City down last night. This is his first visit north, and while the boat tied in at the wharf he walked about town with other passengers and was agreeably impressed.

Mr. Hall is one of the oldest newspaper men in Louisville, and he will no doubt have something to say in his paper of Liverpool when he returns home.

Cleaned Up the Docket.

Mayor Bough had an easy time this morning as no arrests were made during the night or yesterday afternoon. It is the first day this week that no hearings were held.

Mrs. Gourley paid her fine yesterday afternoon, and John Brown, who was to work out his fine, made arrangements to pay $7.60 and was released.

The mayor stated this morning that no less than 25 applications for appointments had been received.

ERLANGER'S.

There Are Such Women.

The dainty little French performer on a vaudeville stage was drawing a charcoal sketch of a ship at sea, with the towers and battlements of an oriental town in the background. It was a night scene, and the moon was full and visible. Everybody saw the picture except a woman well in the front of the theater. She saw it with her eye, but her imperfectly constituted brain didn't see that the lines on the board represented anything.

"Do you see the ship now?" asked her impatient husband.

"It must be night," she said.

"Of course it's night. Don't you see the moon?"

"What is that white stuff in the rear?" she asked, referring to the oriental city.

"Dear me," said her husband, "you are like the fool that can't see the man in the moon, only worse."

"Any way, he's a handsome man," pursued the female. "Do you suppose he's 45 or 33?"

"Don't you see the ship and the city now?" persisted the husband.

"I see something that looks like cheese," she admitted, but at the look of despair on her partner's face she added:

"Oh, yes, now I do see it all. How stupid I was. How pretty and clever it is, to be sure. He's a handsome fellow, and well dressed. Shall we go home, dear, or see what the next act is?"

Without answering her husband arose and helped her on with her coat, and they left the theater, together in body, but widely, widely, separated in spirit.

He Was at Home.

When Mr. Felix Mahoney was a special pension examiner, he had a bit of an experience which deserves a place in the singular coincidence list. It happened up in Connecticut. Mr. Mahoney and a temporary hiring of his were driving along a country road in a sleigh, when in a snow filled cut the conveyance broke down. In the field beside the road Mr. Mahoney caught sight of a man's head. He lifted up his voice and called to the man. The head rose slowly, higher and higher, till its owner's entire figure was revealed, as he climbed out of a grave he had been digging.

"Where does Jim Smith live?" roared Mr. Mahoney.

"Hey?" said the gravedigger, for of course he was deaf. You never heard of a gravedigger in a story who wasn't.

"Where does Jim Smith live?" roared the pension examiner again, fortissimo.

The gravedigger pointed to the nearest house.

"Well," said he, "that's his house over there."

"Is he at home?" bellowed Mr. Mahoney.

"Oh, yes," said the gravedigger. "He's at home. I'm just digging his grave."—Washington Star.

Coal in the Transvaal.

In one colliery not half a dozen miles from the gold mines I have seen a seam of coal 70 feet in thickness. This coal, though of a low quality, suffices for the purposes of the gold mines, and there is a sufficient quantity of it to outlast far the lives of all the gold miners. Besides these coal deposits near the gold-fields and those others by the Vaal river, which furnish coal for the railway system far down into Cape Colony, there are literally hundreds, perhaps even a thousand, square miles of coal in the Middleberg and Ermelo districts lying between Pretoria and Delagoa Bay. In the midst of these coal beds is the outcrop of iron ore, and running through them is the lately constructed railway to Delagoa Bay. With these vast coalfields close to a first rate port on the Indian ocean the prospects of the coal mining industry seem brilliant.—"South Africa Today," Younghusband.

The Bicycle Fiend.

"One most obtrusive unpleasantness in the conversation of the bicycle fiend," observed a nonbicyclist, "is his habit of personally appropriating every part and particle of his machine. It is apparently not enough that he should possess the bicycle in its entirety, but also in detail. 'My wheel,' when uttered two or three times to every sentence, is bad enough, but when it comes to 'my saddle,' 'my tires,' 'my valves,' 'my handle bar' and so forth, the effect is both irritating and irrational. I once heard a man discourse for hours upon 'my inner tube.' Being then not so erudite upon the thing as I am now, I had the greatest difficulty in determining what he meant. From the viewpoint of him who does not ride, the possessive case is nowhere so overworked as in the conversation of the bicycle fiend."—New York Sun.

President Kruger on Office Seeking.

A good story of President Kruger is told in an article on "Mining and Politics in the Transvaal," in The National Review. Some of the president's young relations applied to him for office. He considered awhile and said, "I can do nothing, for the high offices of the state are in firm hands and for little clerkships you are too stupid."

Beautiful Winona.

Winona lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer school, this resort has grown into popular favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by instructive entertainment and study and health-giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer school is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia; the large auditorium in which the Assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and boating are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with 15 day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1, and continue daily until Sept. 30. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until Oct. 31.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer school, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to passenger and ticket agents of the Pennsylvania lines or to F. Van Dusen, chief assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Gem Tester.

The radiograph—that is, the Roentgen ray "photograph"—is an excellent test for gems. Diamonds, pearls, rubies, turquoises, emeralds, opals, garnets, sapphires and so on all give a black radiograph, whereas paste imitations give only a faint radiograph, hardly visible. A minute's exposure is sufficient to tell a true from a false stone.

UNION LABELS.

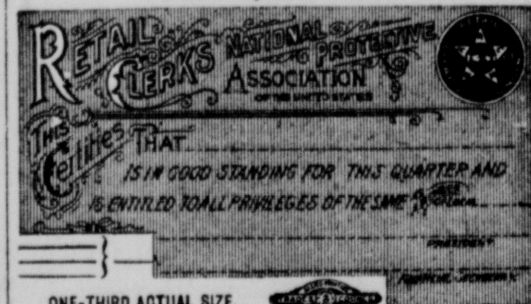

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card. Ask for it when making your purchases.

Endorsed by the A. F. of L.

ONE-THIRD ACTUAL SIZE.

COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER.

Good only during months named in lower left hand corner and when properly signed, and STAMPED with the number of the Local.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it in another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his labels may be counterfeit, and his hats may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

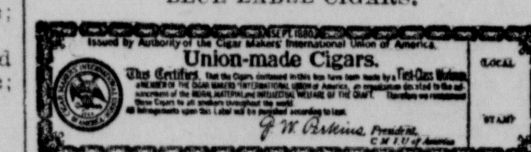

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

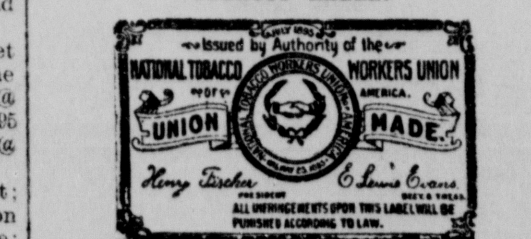

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this Label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the cigar-box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

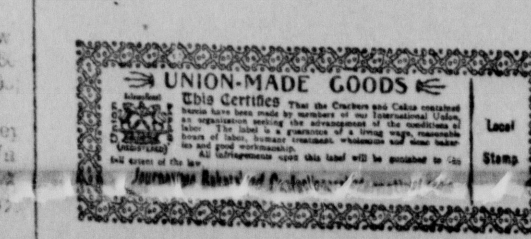

TOBACCO LABEL.

The above Label, printed on blue paper, will be found on all plug tobacco and on the wrappers of chewing tobacco manufactured in union tobacco factories.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker Label:

In one colliery not half a dozen miles from the gold mines I have seen a seam of coal 70 feet in thickness. This coal, though of a low quality, suffices for the purposes of the gold mines, and there is a sufficient quantity of it to outlast far the lives of all the gold miners. Besides these coal deposits near the gold-fields and those others by the Vaal river, which furnish coal for the railway system far down into Cape Colony, there are literally hundreds, perhaps even a thousand, square miles of coal in the Middleberg and Ermelo districts lying between Pretoria and Delagoa Bay. In the midst of these coal beds is the outcrop of iron ore, and running through them is the lately constructed railway to Delagoa Bay. With these vast coalfields close to a first rate port on the Indian ocean the prospects of the coal mining industry seem brilliant. —"South Africa Today," Younghusband.

The Bicycle Fiend.

"One most obtrusive unpleasantness in the conversation of the bicycle fiend," observed a nonbicyclist, "is his habit of personally appropriating every part and particle of his machine. It is apparently not enough that he should possess the bicycle in its entirety, but also in detail. 'My wheel,' when uttered two or three times to every sentence, is bad enough, but when it comes to 'my saddle,' 'my tires,' 'my valves,' 'my handle bar' and so forth, the effect is both irritating and irrational. I once heard a man discourse for hours upon 'my inner tube.' Being then not so erudite upon the thing as I am now, I had the greatest difficulty in determining what he meant. From the viewpoint of him who does not ride, the possessive case is nowhere so overworked as in the conversation of the bicycle fiend." —New York Sun.

President Kruger on Office Seeking.

A good story of President Kruger is told in an article on "Mining and Politics in the Transvaal," in The National Review. Some of the president's young relations applied to him for office. He considered awhile and said, "I can do nothing, for the high offices of the state are in firm hands and for little clerkships you are too stupid."

Beautiful Winona.

Winona lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer school, this resort has grown into popular favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by instructive entertainment and study and health-giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer school is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia; the large auditorium in which the Assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and boating are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with 15 day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1, and continue daily until Sept. 30. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until Oct. 31.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer school, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to passenger and ticket agents of the Pennsylvania lines or to F. Van Dusen, chief assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Gem Tester.

The radiograph—that is, the Roentgen ray "photograph"—is an excellent test for gems. Diamonds, pearls, rubies, turquoises, emeralds, opals, garnets, sapphires and so on all give a black radiograph, whereas paste imitations give only a faint radiograph, hardly visible. A minute's exposure is sufficient to tell a true from a false stone.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card. Ask for it when making your purchases. Endorsed by the A. F. of L.

ONE-THIRD ACTUAL SIZE. COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER. Good only during months named in lower left hand corner and when properly signed, and STAMPED with the number of the Local.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it in another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his labels may be counterfeit, and his hats may be the product of seab or non-union labor.

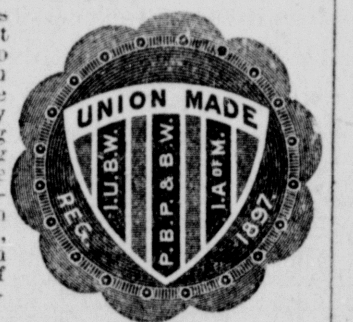

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

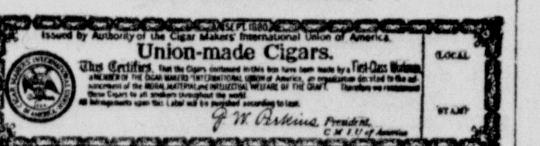

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this Label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

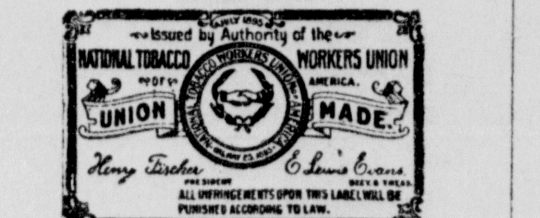

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the cigar-box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

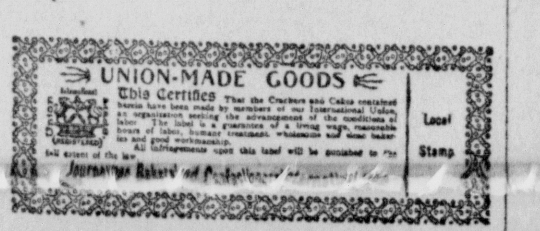

TOBACCO LABEL.

The above Label, printed on blue paper, will be found on all plug tobacco and on the wrappers of chewing tobacco manufactured in union tobacco factories.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker Label:

EARLY CLOSING AGAIN

Trades Council Makes Another Move.

IMPORTANT REPORT CONSIDERED

The Trustees Were Instructed to Investigate the Cost of Better Quarters and the Council Will Likely Occupy a Room in the Thompson Block.

There was a fair attendance at the meeting of Trades Council last evening, but a very short session was held.

The minutes were read and approved, and the label committee said they had carried out the instructions received at the last meeting in regard to the communications. Their report was very satisfactory to the council and was received and placed on file.

The legislative committee reported that they were unable to secure a copy of the Hess bill, requiring all building and loan associations to file a list of their members with the auditor. The committee stated that many people in the city had requested them to ask the council to pass resolutions remonstrating against the passage of the bill, but it was decided to lay the matter over until a copy of the bill could be secured.

The retail clerks reported that they had been successful in getting all but two millinery stores in the city to sign the closing agreement, and the matter was referred to the grievance committee, as was the complaint that one grocery store was keeping open after 7 o'clock.

J. B. Appell was added to the grievance committee, and John Reark and William Ruhe to the committee on credentials.

The trustees were instructed to make arrangements to secure a larger hall, and it is probable they will make arrangements with the Brotherhood to meet in their hall when they move to the rooms vacated by the Elks in the Thompson block.

This was the last session of the present council, and at the next meeting all members will be required to present new credentials and new officers will be elected.

On the River.

The stage of water at the wharf at noon today registered eight feet and falling.

The Queen City passed down last night, and the Urania and Ben Hur are due down tonight.

The Bedford, Lorena and Will J. Cummings are up today. The last named boat is making its maiden trip, and is a craft of only ordinary size. The new line makes a reduction in passenger rates between this port and Cincinnati.

But few towboats went up, and among the number were the Charles Brown and Jim Brown.

Will Open the Tower.

It was learned last night the Cleveland and Pittsburgh company would in the near future reopen W. N. tower and place a night man on duty.

Last year when freights were heavy the company found the plan to work satisfactory, and it is their intention to repeat the idea this year. Lake trade is now open, and through freight shipments are steadily increasing.

The Triumph of Danny.

Several years before the discovery of oil at Pithole an Irishman named McCarthy and his son Dan came to this country from the Emerald Isle. Dan was a young man of 20, but his father looked upon him as a mere boy and seemed to take delight in ridiculing him before people.

"Yis, Dan is a good b'y," he would say sarcastically, "but, Danny, me b'y, yez'll never set the river on fire."

This was his stock witticism, and it annoyed Dan very much, but he did his best and soon surprised the old gentleman by securing a lucrative job.

"Yis, Danny has a job all right," he said. "It's $1.50 a day, but the b'y'll never set the river on fire."

When oil was found at Pithole, Dan hurried to the scene and was soon earning unusually large wages as a teamster. All the petroleum was drawn in barrels, and teams were in great demand. He saved his money, bought an acre of land and soon had a well drilled that was producing 100 barrels of oil per day at $10 per barrel. The elder McCarthy joined him, saw the well, received a liberal gift of money, and then shook his head ominously.

"Tis a good thing, Danny," he croaked; "ye're doin well, but mark me worruds, yez'll never set the river on fire, me b'y."

A few days later a flood wrecked one of Dan's small wooden tanks, the oil ran down the river, and there was great excitement. As Dan and his father stood on the bank watching the oil flow away Dan drew a match and lighted it.

"Father," he said coolly, "the next time yez say O'll never set the river on fire plaze remimber that Oi had a chance waunst, and—and didn't do ut, bedad!"

Then he blew out the match.—Harper's Bazar.

Can't Tell Their Husbands Apart.

Jim Hisey, aged 48, is a prosperous grain dealer in Yale. He has a wife, two sons and a daughter. Will Hisey, aged 48, his brother, lives at Sparta. He is also married. The two men are twins, and all through life have been the living duplicates of each other. So near alike are they even their wives cannot tell them apart. They dress alike, their voices are alike and their hair and mustaches have the same color and curls. When boys, they had to be tagged so that their parents and teachers would know the difference. When Jim gets a crick in the back, Will is liable to have the same complaint, and when Will gets the rheumatism Jim also gets it precisely in the same place. They were formerly both engaged in the milling business and served an apprenticeship under the same man. They were born in western Ontario, their parents being Jacob and Betsy Hisey. Jim's wife has only one way in which she can tell her husband from his brother. He has a slight curve in one of his fingers, which has to be held up in full view. Then he must give a password before he is received into full fellowship of the home circle. Many amusing instances of mistaken identity are told of the two.—Detroit Tribune.

A Big Price For a Ride.

In The Century there is an article on "The River Trip to the Klondike" by John Sidney Webb. The author says of his trip to the mines:

And here let me make a confession—I, with others, rode a horse. No one can imagine what a sensation this created along the creek. No one had ever indulged in such extravagance before. Though a man should wash out $20,000 in a day, he would be content to walk. But I rode at 30 cents per pound to El Dorado and 80 cents to return, or 186 pounds for $111.60. They did not, however, put me on the scales like a sack of gold dust. Still, it was cheap, according to an Irishman coming over the summit, who remarked that he had had his goods packed over by Indians. "An I got it chape," said he. "How much did you pay?" some one inquired. "I don't know," said he. "Then how do you know it was cheap?" "Oh, anything would be chape over that place," he replied.

Not So Daft After All.

Daft Tam, as he was called, wandering through the village one day, got severely bitten by the village inn dog.

Proceeding to the inn, he showed the mistress what her "dawg" had done. She was much alarmed and, putting a half crown into Tam's hand, said:

"Awa tae the doctor, noo, an pay him wi' the hauf crown." Tam eyed the coin, saying: "I dinna think I'll bother wi' the doctor, but jist keep the siller." "For my sake, gang tae him, or else ye'll gang daft." "Hoots, wumman, ye're bletherin. Daft folk canna gang daft twice."—Pearson's Weekly.

All the Same.

Brobsion—It's a disputed question which have the quicker tempers, blonds or brunettes.

Craik—Is it? Brobsion—Yes. My wife has been both, and I couldn't see that it made any difference.—Boston Traveler.

Comparing Notes.

"I've married five times," said the proud little matron from Detroit. "That's nothing," laughed the Chicago woman who occupied the same seat on the train. "I've married five times."

A NEW CODE OF LAWS

GOVERNOR JAMES G. BRADY SAYS ALASKA NEEDS ONE.

He Claims There Should Be a Reform in the Judicial System—More Commissioners Needed—Rush For the Goldfields. No Way to Acquire Title to Land.

James G. Brady, governor of Alaska and one of the oldest residents of the territory, recently arrived in St. Paul on his way to Washington, where he goes with the hope of interesting congress in some measures of reform which he considers indispensable to the future welfare of the territory. Governor Brady has been a resident of Alaska for 20 years. He went there from New York city as a missionary of the Presbyterian board to the Indians. For many years, however, he has been engaged in mercantile and manufacturing pursuits.

"I desire particularly," said he at the Merchants the other evening, "to draw the attention of congress to the necessity of some reform in the judicial system of the territory. The present officials are unable to cover the ground. Congress has thus far done nothing to meet the rapidly changing situation in Alaska, and it is imperative that something be done before long. We have prepared a memorial which will be presented to congress at the earliest possible moment, expressing our ideas of what should be done."

"We recommend, among other things, that a commission be appointed to draw up a new code of laws for the government of the territory applicable to the peculiar conditions there. We recommend three judges instead of one, as at present, and more commissioners. There is but one commissioner at the present time for both Dyea and Skagway and all the distance up over the pass. Naturally one man cannot begin to cover this territory. It is the same with the United States marshal and deputies."

"I have recently returned from a trip from Dyea to the summit of the pass, desiring to make myself thoroughly acquainted with the conditions before going to Washington. I took my place in the line of men stretching in single file from the 'Scales' to the summit and made the trip as one of them. They are a very devoted band of men, thoroughly in earnest, giving everybody their rights and demanding the same for themselves. I was surprised at the excellent character of the men on the trail. They are equal to the same number anywhere in the country in qualities of citizenship; they are thoroughly law abiding. There is a small element of floaters from the cities, Dyea and Skagway, who are there for no good purpose, but they have given no great trouble as yet. I did not see very much sickness on the trail."

"I look for a rush via the Yukon later this spring. In this connection I would like to sound a note of warning. The snowfall this winter in the vicinity of Dyea and Skagway has been considerably less than usual. If the same conditions prevail in the interior, the Yukon will necessarily be lower this summer than usual, and boats will experience considerable difficulty in reaching Dawson. Under these circumstances it seems to me the duty of the transportation companies to see that they get ample supplies up the river early in the season."

"I believe Alaska has a brilliant career before her. There are other things there than gold. Southeastern Alaska has a splendid climate, unlimited timber, the finest fisheries in the world and is susceptible of great agricultural development. I have had a fine garden for 20 years, containing nearly all the vegetables found in any garden, as well as the usual small fruits. The small grains can be cultivated with excellent success. There is no better field for stock growing anywhere, and with the splendid markets that the territory will furnish one can be assured of a large profit."

"But there is one serious obstacle to all this at present. Alaska is not included under the operations of the general land law and there is no way of perfecting title to property. I have been for seven years trying to get title to 160 acres of land near Sitka, and I am no nearer to it now than when I started."—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

A Song of Liberty.

Across the land, from strand to strand,
Loud ring the bugle notes,
And freedom's smile, from isle to isle,
Like freedom's banner floats.

The velvet vales sing "Liberty!"
To answering skies serene;
The mountains, sloping to the sea,
Wave all their flags of green.

One song of liberty and life
That was and is to be Till tyrant flags are trampled rags
And all the world is free!

It rises, and an echo comes
From chained and troubled isles
And roars like ocean's thunder drums
Where glad Columbia smiles.

Where, thronged and great, she sits in state
Beneath her flag of stars,
Her heroes' blood the sacred flood
That crimsoned all its bars!

It is our country!
Strong she stands,
Nor fears the war drum's beat,
The sword of freedom in her hands,
The tyrant at her feet!
—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

The Chain Gang.

"These gentlemen who are attired in the peculiar uniform that fancy ascribes to the pirate and freebooter," says an old time Washingtonian, "now known as the 'chain gang,' do not belong to a modern institution, as it is generally supposed. While it may be a new custom in some parts of the country to work the offenders of municipal law on the streets the custom has prevailed in this city for about three-fourths of a century. The corporation of Washington established the asylum in 1821, and the male inmates of the penitentiary department were ordered to report for work on the streets Nov. 23, 1823. The asylum, or poor and work house, was located then on the square bounded by M, N, Sixth and Seventh streets northwest, and in the early days those placed in the gang were so small in number as to attract no attention. I do not think that any attempt to place the offenders in the black and white stripes was made till long after the asylum was moved to the banks of the Anacostia, about 1846."—Washington Star.

TO BUSINESS MEN.

The combination prices of the NEWS REVIEW, advertisement in paper and bills from said advertisement, are cheaper than any other daily paper in the city, while the workmanship, material and inks made use of are incomparably superior to those of would-be competitors. Test the matter. We will prove the truth of our assertion.

Printed envelopes, either 6 or 8 in size, at the NEWS REVIEW, from 95 cents per thousand up, according to quality. We defy competition in workmanship or material.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

No calls were sent to the fire station last night.

Mrs. Robert Irwin, of Calcutta road, is very ill. Her condition is thought to be critical.

The electric light at the corner of Seventh and Franklin streets was out last night.

Councilman Challis is having plans drawn for a new addition to his residence in Bank street.

Elmer Potts pleasantly entertained a number of young friends at his home in Gardendale Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McCoy last evening entertained a number of friends at their home in Second street.

Attorney G. Y. Travis, George C. Morton and W. H. Adams are spending the day fishing at Beaver creek.

J. F. Quick, of East Market street, who has been suffering with paralysis for some time, is now able to be out.

Ex-toll Keeper Rowan, of the bridge, was in Pittsburg today on business. John Shrader was also in that place.

Miss Freedman, of Pittsburg, who has been in the city visiting her brother for some time, left for her home at noon.

James Haught left last night on the Queen City for Matamoras, where he will visit his mother, who is very ill.

Prosecutor Brookes left this morning for Salem, where he will remain some time. From there he will go to Lisbon.

James McMillan, of Lincoln avenue, returned home this morning from Calcutta, where he purchased a fine horse.

Mrs. Hugh Maley left at noon today for Pittsburg where she will enter the Mercy hospital. She will undergo an operation.

Rev. J. S. Reager, of Wellsville, will this evening deliver a lecture at the Second M. E. church upon "Personal Purity."

It would be interesting to see that "numerous fleet," which a local paper said last night had landed at Ostend with Don Carlos.

Isaac Walters has entered suit in the court of Squire Hill against John Dimock for $3. The case will be heard Monday morning.

The Good Templars have arranged to give an entertainment in Rechabite hall next Saturday evening and the election of officers will follow.

Contractor Ryan today finished the work of repaving portions of the south side of Third street. The work has been progressing for a week.

The township trustees will commence the work of putting the roads in first-class condition early next week, should the weather continue good.

The Potters' Brotherhood have leased the third floor of the Thompson block, and will move in the near future from their present quarters in the Whittenberger block.

Mrs. Samuel Davis, of Calcutta, is very ill, and word received in this place this morning says her recovery is doubtful. Her son, Arthur Green, left this morning for her home.

J. S. Constans, traveling agent of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, was in the city yesterday afternoon. This is his second trip to Liverpool within a week, and to a reporter said he secured much business for his road this trip.

Two more cars of iron work for the construction of the West End trestle were received in the lower freight yards during the night. One car came from the Penn Bridge company and the other from the Carnegie Steel company from its M unhall mill. About six more carloads are yet to be received.

Lowering of the Great Lakes.

W. S. Harwood writes of "The Great Lakes" in St. Nicholas. Mr. Harwood says:

Geologists point out the fact that this chain of lakes has not always been as it now is; that there was a time when all the lakes were blended into one, having probably the Mississippi river for its outlet to the gulf on the south. One geologist says:

Every day sees something taken from the rocky barrier of Niagara, and geologically speaking at no very remote time our great lakes will have shared the fate of those which once existed in the great far west. Already they have been reduced to less than one-half their former area, and the water level has been depressed 300 feet or more. The process is pretty sure to go on until they are completely emptied. The cities that stand upon their banks will ere that time have grown colossal in size, then gray with age, then fall into decadence and their sites be long forgotten, but in the sediments that are now accumulating in these lake basins will lie many a wreck and skeleton, tree trunk and floated leaf. Near the city sites and old river mouths these sediments will be full of relics that will illustrate and explain the mingled comedy and tragedy of life.

In a certain sense these lakes form one mighty river, draining a region of over 525,000 square miles and finding an outlet for their overflowing water through the swift St. Mary's river at the east end of Superior; through Huron and the St. Clair river and Lake St. Clair and the Detroit river; through Erie and Niagara and Ontario and the St. Lawrence, on to the vast ocean beyond.

It is interesting to note that the bottom of Lake Superior, the highest of the lakes, is about 400 feet below the surface of the sea at New York harbor.

A War Precaution.

A very important precaution taken by our government is the purchase of several thousand tons of coal at Kingston, St. Thomas and other ports in the West Indies, which has been loaded upon chartered vessels and lighters and the United States flag placed over them. Under the laws of war this coal is the property of the United States and is not exposed to capture while in the harbor of a friendly nation.—Chicago Record.

The will of an old London merchant shows him to have been something of a wag, for he had made a list of all his "bad debts" and left them as legacies distributed among his friends, one particularly favored person getting over $6,000 worth.

M. WADE, JEWELER.

Do you blame a juror if false testimony is admitted which cannot be proven false? The law and the court make it incumbent upon a jury to bring in "A VERDICT ACCORDING TO THE EVIDENCE."

The boy who "is always breaking something," and the girl who is "forever stumbling," because they do not see objects clearly, render verdicts according to the evidence of eyes that testify falsely, and they should be no more censured for perversity, stupidity and carelessness than jurors should be. They may be made normal by rightly adjusted glasses. When the smallpox prevails YOU HAVE YOUR CHILD VACINATED.

Have you guarded him against the perils of wrong vision? Free tests are made at Wade's well equipped parlors by one versed in the diseases and hygiene of the eye as well as in fitting of glasses. When is the best time to come? NOW.
